

“I’ve had my fistula for 26 years - the entire time I’ve been on dialysis. It’s my lifeline.” - One Patient’s Quote

An arteriovenous (AV) fistula is the surgical joining of an artery and a vein. Fistulas are a patient’s lifeline to better treatment and more normal life. They are the preferred access for hemodialysis or home dialysis.

What does an AV Fistula (AVF) mean for you?

- Improved quality of life
- Better dialysis treatments
- Dramatically reduced chance of infection
- Most reliable and durable type of access
